

We propose a foreign policy for Argentina that protects national interests, promotes trade, strengthens regional cooperation, and enhances international credibility. The goal is to secure Argentina's economic, security, and diplomatic objectives while projecting a responsible and pragmatic presence globally.

1. Strengthen Regional Partnerships

Argentina's immediate interests lie in South America. We propose:

- Deepening cooperation within Mercosur to enhance trade, infrastructure, and investment flows
- Promoting regional energy, transportation, and technology integration
- Coordinating with neighbors on border management, security, and environmental protection

Stronger regional ties increase stability and economic opportunity.

2. Expand Trade and Investment

Global engagement should support economic growth. We propose:

- Negotiating free trade agreements that open export markets while protecting key domestic sectors
- Attracting foreign direct investment through stable legal and tax frameworks
- Supporting Argentine businesses in international markets via export promotion agencies

Trade and investment policies should maximize economic returns while maintaining sovereignty over strategic sectors.

3. Maintain Strategic Global Alliances

Argentina should cultivate relations with key global powers to balance economic, political, and security interests:

- Strengthen ties with major economies in the Americas, Europe, and Asia
- Engage multilaterally through institutions such as the United Nations, World Trade Organization, and Inter-American Development Bank
- Promote a pragmatic, non-ideological approach to diplomacy that protects Argentina's interests

Balanced alliances enhance credibility and influence on the international stage.

4. Protect Sovereignty and National Interests

Foreign policy must safeguard territorial and strategic interests, including:

- Clear and consistent positions on the Falkland/Malvinas Islands
- Responsible management of maritime, energy, and natural resources
- Defense of Argentine citizens and companies abroad

Protecting sovereignty ensures long-term national security and economic independence.

5. Promote International Cooperation on Global Issues

Argentina should play an active role in solving global challenges, which also strengthens its diplomatic profile:

- Engage on climate change, biodiversity, and sustainable development initiatives
- Cooperate on public health, technology, and infrastructure projects
- Participate in international peacekeeping and humanitarian efforts

Constructive engagement improves Argentina's influence and reputation worldwide.

6. Encourage Cultural and Scientific Diplomacy

Soft power enhances global presence. We propose:

- Expanding programs that promote Argentine culture, education, and innovation abroad
- Supporting international research collaborations and student exchanges
- Leveraging science and technology partnerships to increase Argentina's global footprint

Cultural and scientific diplomacy strengthens relationships beyond economic and political channels.

7. Ensure Transparent and Accountable Diplomacy

Effective foreign policy requires openness and accountability:

- Publish clear strategic priorities and foreign policy objectives

- Report on international negotiations and agreements
- Align diplomatic efforts with domestic economic and social policy goals

Transparency builds trust domestically and internationally.

✅ In summary:

We propose a foreign policy for Argentina that is pragmatic, trade-oriented, regionally integrated, and sovereignty-focused, combining strategic alliances, global engagement, and soft power to enhance national security, economic growth, and international influence.
